

Danny Richardson's Lifetime Achievement Award

One of PMA's primary missions is to represent its members on public policy issues before Georgia State Government. Much of the responsibility for carrying out that mission falls upon the PMA Legislative Chairman. For the past 14 years, that critical post has been filled by Danny Richardson.

But Danny did more than just fill a post. He has been our eyes and ears, and he has been our voice. He has recognized the needs of PMA members, and the issues affecting their businesses. He has articulated those needs, communicating PMA's positions on key issues to the legislature, the Governor's office and state agencies.

Danny "did us proud" during his 14 years as Legislative Chairman. Not only was he an effective spokesman, he represented us with candor, honesty, and dignity. His high ethical standards allowed PMA to always occupy the "high ground" as we worked to help shape public policy.

We are all deeply indebted to Danny for all the time and energy he gave to PMA. We will be reaping the rewards of his work for years to come.

Danny told PMA in an interview once "I'm very interested in what happens to the plumbing industry. I believe that every person should belong to their industry association to try to make that industry and association better. I believe in giving back."

Danny is receiving this Lifetime Achievement not only for the legislative work he has done, but for the active participation in the organization over the last 20 years. Danny has held the position of State President, President NorthGa PHCC, Secretary/Treasurer NorthGA PHCC, has served on numerous committees over the years and has been PMA's acting Secretary/Treasurer for over 10 years. Additionally, he has received the Contractor of the Year Award.

Danny we are proud to recognize that you have given back not only to PMA but the entire Plumbing Industry ten fold, and we are glad to recognize you with this Lifetime Achievement Award.
